During the 1960s, the rise in popularity of pressure cooking saw Tower become the UK's largest producer of pressure cookers, right through into the late 1980s. In recent years the Tower brand has been reborn with an exciting and varied range of housewares and electrical appliances that have quickly reinstated the brand's richly deserved status as a household name.

BEFORE FIRST USE

Before using your new accessories it is recommended that all labels are removed and the bakeware, cupcake cases, waffle and tartlet moulds, silicone mat, silicone tongs and brush are washed with a non-abrasive, mild detergent solution, rinsed and dried thoroughly.

To obtain the best results from any items with non-stick cooking surfaces it is recommended that you condition the non-stick cooking surface with a small amount of cooking / vegetable oil which is spread on the surface with a clean cloth and then use a paper towel to remove the excess oil. Periodic conditioning will help to preserve the release quality of the non-stick surface.

MAINTENANCE AND CLEANING

The cupcake cases, waffle and tartlet moulds, silicone mat, silicone tongs and brush are dishwasher safe, however hand wash is recommended to maintain the finish. Do not use steel wool, scouring pads, oven cleaners, bleach or strong abrasive cleaners to clean them. Store in a cool, dry and clean place.

The bakeware is oven safe to 230°C/Gas Mark 7. Always use protective oven gloves when handling hot bakeware items during or after cooking. Do not use in microwave ovens, grill or use on direct heat sources. These bakeware items are for household use only.

It is recommended that plastic or wooden utensils are used to minimize the damage to the surfaces. Avoid sharp metal implements such as forks, mashers, knives or whisks as they can damage the non-stick surfaces.

DO NOT plunge into, or fill with, cold water when hot. Cool the bakeware for a few minutes before cleaning.

The bakeware items are dishwasher safe, however hand wash is recommended to maintain the finish. Do not use harsh abrasive detergent or scouring pads/brushes to clean them.

To remove dried on food, soak in warm soapy water before cleaning. Do not leave your bakeware to soak in water for long periods of time.

Over time, the rim of the bakeware may appear slightly rusty due to washing up water becoming trapped inside this area. This is natural trait of carbon steel, not a fault, and it will not affect the performance of the product. If desired, leave the products in a warm oven for a few minutes to remove moisture from inside the rim.

STORAGE

Dry the bakeware items thoroughly before storing.

DO NOT store wet bakeware as it will cause a bacteria build-up. Store your bakeware in a clean, cool and dry place. When stacking, place a layer of paper/protector between the bakeware to avoid scratching or damage.
